Paul Hoxby Biography

Paul is a solutions-focused professional in the surge protection and electrical distribution industry, recognized for his ability to quickly understand technical requirements and translate them into clear, practical decisions.

He leverages strong analytical thinking and product knowledge to navigate complex specifications, support customers, and identify the right protection solutions for a wide range of applications.

Paul’s approach is grounded in clarity, efficiency, and a commitment to reliable, high-quality outcomes—making him a trusted resource in fast-moving electrical and power-protection environments.