Began my construction career in the 1970s and has seen safety become an important factor of construction projects. My experience includes more than 25 years as a journeyman ironworker in civil and industrial construction, mining and sawmill construction. I hold a Certificate of Health and Safety from BCIT. Knowing that industry experience and safety knowledge would be a formidable combination, I moved from the trades to a full-time safety advisory career, joining the BCCSA as a Regional Safety Advisor in 2014.
